From the Pastor's Desk

Today we celebrate the 4th Sunday in Ordinary Time. In the gospel today we see Jesus perform an exorcism of a man with an unclean spirit. Bystanders are amazed at the authority Jesus exercises over the powers of evil. "He commands even the unclean spirits and they obey him." The Lord has authority (exousia) over the sin and temptation that impact our lives. We trustingly invite the Lord to speak His words of authority into our hearts, and lead us to deeper holiness.

From the Pastor's Desk

This weekend marks the beginning of Catholic Schools Week (Jan. 31 - Feb. 5). We will kick-off the week with our Sunday Masses today. Before the beginning of Mass, we have invited Blessed Sacrament School parents to share their thoughts on the benefits of Catholic education for their own families. Many events are planned throughout the week. I invite you to share in our excitement of celebrating Catholic education here at Blessed Sacrament in Quincy.

Our Accounting Office is making available Printed copies of your annual 2020 Financial contribution statements for you to pick up in church. This weekend we again have labeled and sealed envelopes containing your contribution information that you can use in preparing your tax return. Envelopes will be sorted alphabetically, and we encourage you to pick up your sealed envelope before or after Mass.

I would like to thank our Buildings and Grounds Committee (Chair: Mike Grant) and Fischer Builders for Moving our Tabernacle structure this week back within the high altar of the sanctuary. I also thank our anonymous donor who made this possible. Thanks especially to Fr. Chris Comerford who originally envisioned this for our parish worship space.

Finally, Pope Francis has commemorated 2021 as the "Year of St. Joseph." This is in celebration of the 150-year anniversary of St. Joseph being declared Patron of the Universal Church. At Blessed Sacrament we have therefore moved our statue of St. Joseph into the sanctuary where he will remain until Dec. 8, 2021. We will also offer a prayer to St. Joseph at every Mass at the conclusion of the general intercessions. We will soon give parish members St. Joseph prayer cards which you can use to join us in this prayer. The official St. Joseph prayer looks like this:

Hail, Guardian of the Redeemer,
Spouse of the Blessed Virgin Mary.

To you God entrusted his only Son;
In you Mary placed her trust;
With you Christ became man.

Blessed Joseph, to us too, show yourself a father
And guide us in the path of life.

Obtain for us the grace, mercy, and courage,
And defend us from every evil. Amen.

May the Peace of Christ be with you all,

Fr. Tom

Catholic Schools Week 2021

History

National Catholic Schools week has been a celebration of Catholic education in the United States since 1974. Schools typically observe the annual celebration week with Masses, open houses and other activities for students, families, parishioners and community members. Through these events, schools focus on the value Catholic education provides to young people and its contributions to our church, our communities and our nation. This year we celebrate with the theme "Catholic Schools: Faith. Excellence. Service." Whether your son or daughter attends a parochial school or Parish School of Religion classes, Catholic education is a gift to be thankful for.

16 Years of Catholic School?!

Ginny Steinkamp

One of the greatest gifts I have been given is the gift of Catholic education. I attended K-8th grade in the Quincy Catholic School and then continued my Catholic Education in College. Even after graduation, I continue to produce original theological research to present at academic conferences. I realize how much of a financial demand private, Catholic school can be on a family, but I have seen it transform and direct my life and the lives of so many. My education has not just formed me intellectually, but it has also formed me in my relationship with Jesus. It has also placed me in communities with people also seeking to grow in relationship with the Lord. Thank you for the sacrifices that you make for your children. You're preparing them to be Saints! What greater gift could you give?

St. Joseph of Cupertino

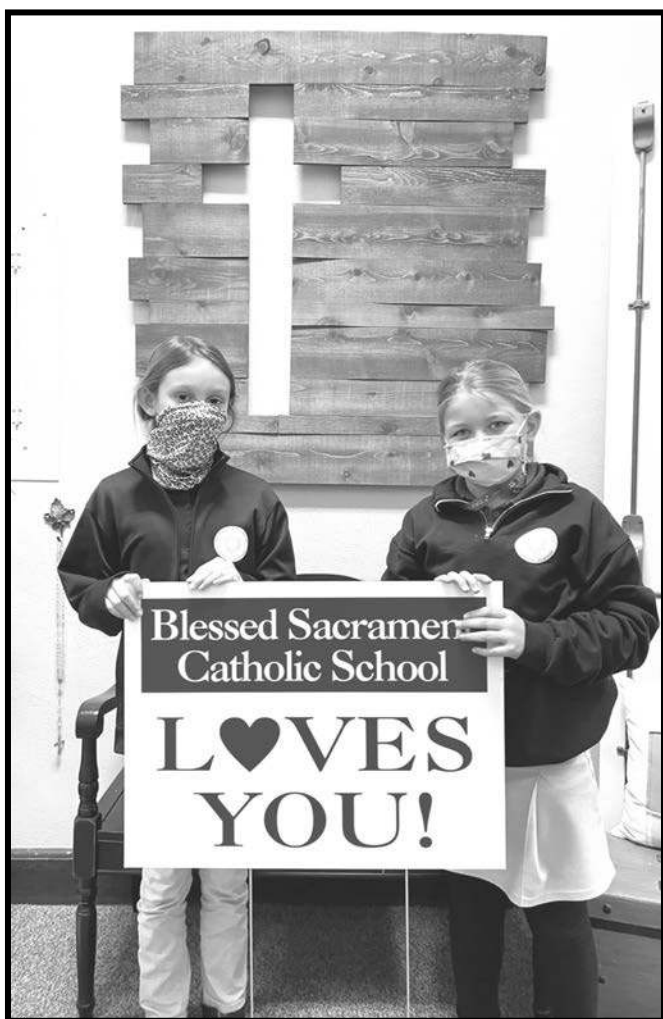

O Great St. Joseph of Cupertino who while on earth did obtain from God the grace to be asked at your examination only the questions you knew, obtain for me a like favour in the examinations for which I am now preparing. In return I promise to make you known and cause you to be invoked

Fourth Sunday in Ordinary Time

Fourth Sunday in Ordinary Time - 31 January 2021

Deuteronomy 18:15-20. Psalm 95:1-2, 6-7, 7-9. 1 Corinthians 7:32-35. Mark 1:21-28.

Teaching with Authority. Jesus begins his ministry with us this liturgical year doing two things. He is teaching with authority - like no other. And his teaching spills into action for the benefit of another - mercy at work.

- How is Jesus astonishing me by what he teaches?
- How am I listening for his words, his call, his teaching?
- How is my listening spilling out into mercy thoughts, mercy action, mercy works?

The Presentation of the Lord, Feast - Monday, 02 February 2021

Malachi 3:1-4. Psalm 24:7, 8, 9, 10. Hebrews 2:14-18. Luke 2:22-40.

Waiting for That Day. In the simple act of bringing the eight-day old Jesus to the temple, Mary and Joseph (now, patron of the whole Church) follow the law. Both Simeon and Anna were long waiting for that day, the day of Christ the Lord coming in person. Simeon says: I can go now; my waiting is done. Anna gives thanks that redemption has come in Jesus. In blessing and lighting candles this day, we announce that God's light, the Light of Christ, shines on us and in us.

How am I seeing God's salvation at work today?

2 Saints Who Fought For Injustice

These saints were determined to make the world a better place.

Among the most beloved and powerful readings in the Holy Gospel are those that include the Sermon on the Mount. In the sermon, Jesus teaches His disciples how to live holy lives. He tells us, through the Beatitudes, that we should be peacemakers, show mercy for others, and thirst for righteousness. He makes it abundantly clear that Christians should never be unjust to or have prejudices against others.

In Matthew 7, which is also part of the Sermon on the Mount, Jesus makes this point even more apparent when He advises His disciples to follow what we now commonly refer to as the Golden Rule. He said, "In everything, do to others as you would have them do to you; for this is the law and the prophets." Since the majority of rational people do not want to be looked down upon or treated disrespectfully, Jesus was undoubtedly advising His disciples to be respectful and fair to everyone.

It's only natural that most saints would strive to be people of the Beatitudes. Living according to the teachings of Jesus would certainly be of the utmost importance in their minds. There's no doubt that in heeding those teachings, most of them would strive to lift up people who were oppressed by unjust people and societies in various ways.

Taking it one step further, many saints also actively fought injustice. Whether it was poverty, corruption, racism, or other forms of injustice, they did what they could to try to overcome it. Here are two saints who fought injustice and made life better for multitudes of people throughout the world.

Saint John Bosco

In 1815, another Italian saint, Saint John Bosco, was born into a poor family. He had to help his mother until he was 12 and take any job he could after that. Thankfully, a priest helped him get an education so that he could become a priest. But when he was nine years old, the saint had a dream that other poor boys were being rowdy and blaspheming God. When he yelled at them, a glowing man appeared, followed by a glowing woman, and told the child that he would have to change their behavior with kindness, not anger. When he was a priest in Turin, a city where many poor boys had to sleep in the streets, the saint felt compassion for the kids. He not only prayed with them, took them for walks, and entertained them with magic tricks, he founded a home for 700 boys. Although people tried to kill him, he also founded schools where the boys could learn trades/professions suited to their gifts, and he fought business owners who had abused and used the boys. He created contracts for the business owners to abide by that demanded the apprentices be treated with dignity. According to the book "Stories of the Saints: Bold and Inspiring Tales of Adventure, Grace, and Courage," by Carey Wallace and Nick Thornborrow, by the time the saint had passed away in 1888, "he and his order had started more than 250 schools all over the world, for more than a hundred thousand children.

Saint Martin de Porres

Another saint who had to overcome racism and discrimination to see his dream of serving God by devoutly helping others come true is Saint Martin de Porres. Among other patronages, he's the saint of race relations and social justice. Although he wasn't a slave, his mother was a freed slave of either African or Native American descent. His father was a Spaniard who never married the saint's mother and left the family when the saint was a child. Because of laws/rules in Peru in the late 1500s that forbade people of African or Native American descent from joining religious orders, he wasn't allowed to join an order on his first attempt. But he humbly volunteered at a Dominican priory in Lima and did menial jobs.

He was promoted to servant boy and later to jobs with more responsibilities. After several years of servitude, he impressed the prior, Juan de Lorenzana, so much that the prior disregarded the law and allowed him to become a member of the Third Order of Saint Dominic. Despite being ridiculed by other members of the priory, he went on to become known for his great compassion, kindness, and ability to perform astounding miracles. He also founded an orphanage for abandoned children and slaves and became renowned for performing medical miracles and constantly risking his life caring for the sick.
