The Wounded Hero by Vincent Van Gogh

that is, the willingness to embrace the brokenness of others.

The image above, titled The Wounded Hero, is a painting by Vincent Van Gogh from 1890. It was painted in the year of his death at age 37 while he was living in an asylum, shortly before he would give into his depression and mania and commit suicide by a self-inflicted gunshot.

One can imagine him alone in his cell, perhaps with freshly-painted canvases strewn about...all now priceless masterpieces treasured by museums and collectors. The sounds and smells of the hot, dingy asylum were no doubt close at hand: the shrieking of the insane, the groans of the suffering, and the chatter across the ward. Van Gogh wants to identify himself with the hero, the Samaritan, as indicated by the use of red-orange in the figure's beard — a trope which was familiar to his portraits when he wanted to be self-identified in his art. Unknown to most, Vincent had once hoped to be a preacher and missionary like his father, but had failed — his speech was considered “not eloquent”, his personal habits were...off-putting. Art would be a “second choice” in his life's struggle for self-realization amidst creative obsession.

Van Gogh is perhaps remembered by most not for his art, but for the insanity of his final years, most dramatically expressed by an event where he cut off his right ear. A few years ago, Pastor Russ Ramsey blogged about visiting a traveling exhibit of Van Gogh's works: The exhibit was designed in such a way that one had to exit through the gift shop. In that shop were, “gag gifts poking fun at Vincent's mania. There was a coffee mug with an ear for a handle, gummy ears, a plush doll with one ear attached by Velcro, and so on. It was a terribly sad display of profiting from someone's brilliance while mocking their weakness.”

He remarks that “the Gospel frees us from [the] ugliness” of this “terribly sad display.” God does not mock us in our weakness, but picks us up, even and especially when we are broken, abandoned, and un-lovable. Vincent was familiar with abandonment, rejection, poverty, and loneliness, and his perceived sense of failure in life. Thus in this poverty of spirit, he could be imminently present to the suffering people who surrounded him on all sides. While self-pity might have easily lead him to choose to see himself as the injured figure being loaded onto the horse in the painting, it seems that he instead wanted to identify with the strength and heroism of the Samaritan. Oh, to be like the Samaritan in compassion, generosity, and inclusion! Even if he could not preach or serve or even hold a conventional job, Van Gogh recognized his art could venerate the Good Samaritan as a hero, and in doing so, he would have both a personal ideal to strive for and also an icon to inspire others who suffer as they look upon this image. Vincent knew of his need for Divine Mercy at some level. Sometimes only after this kind of soul-crushing suffering do we come to know how dearly God loves us. And once we have encountered that kind of unconditional love, we then find ourselves drawn to those who suffer...because we have come to know that in those moments, God is near!

A Message from Mrs. Carol Frericks—Principal

St. Dominic School Students Appreciate Their Catholic School Experience

I love my Catholic school because...

“ The teachers and staff at my school are the most supportive and encouraging people I’ve met in my whole life. Their one goal is to get us the proper education we need in life if we are going to be successful. Whenever we feel like quitting, they always lift us back up and get us back in the game. If we need help or don’t understand something, then all we have to do is ask and they will get to helping us right away. ”

At the Kindergarten Camp, we will provide opportunities to help students learn about school routines before the first day of school; to help families walk through the drop off and pick up procedures; to help students learn lunch routines; to help students learn how to unpack their backpacks; and to help students ease into the school setting with only their class in the school. Attending Kindergarten Camp is an optional opportunity for new school families.

2023 Mass Intention Book

The Mass Intention Books for 2023 will open on July 1 at the Parish Office. In order that as many families as possible might have access to requesting Masses for friends and family on the weekends, we ask that such requests be limited to once a month and spread out on both weekends and weekdays. We also ask that the Christmas and Easter holidays be taken by a particular intention no more than once every three years. We will do our best to accommodate anniversaries and birthdays, but typically we operate on a first-come, first-served basis. The stipend set by the Diocese of Springfield remains $10 for a Mass. For more information, please see reprints from a series published in the July 2020 bulletins which appears on our parish website at stanthonypadua.org.

Merry Widows Lunch

The Merry Widows will begin meeting for lunch starting July 20, 11:30 a.m., at Sprouts. We plan to meet every month on the 3rd Wednesday. All widows are welcome! We are looking forward to meeting once again!

Prayer for Our Country

Dear God, bless our country, the United States of America. Keep our country in the Christian faith. Keep our country and all the peoples living in justice. Keep the young people of this great land, noble, brave, loyal and true. Immaculate Heart of Mary, Mother of God, under your very special title of the Immaculate Conception you are the patroness of the United States of America. Pray to your Divine Son, Jesus Christ, and with that special power you have, O Mary, by being always perfectly sinless, bring everyone in our country to Jesus Christ. Amen.

Transmission of Our Catholic Faith to the Next generation

In the last two bulletins, we have shared with you the need to consider a family-based Catechesis for our parish. It is clear that the future of Catechesis must include helping parents to catechize and assist in handing on the Faith to their children.

The Catechetical series that we will use is called A Family of Faith. This parish family-based Catechism series covers the entire Catechism of the Catholic Church in four years and assists parents in teaching their children the Faith. One special advantage of teaching children catechism at home is that it is an opportunity to draw your family closer together. It also can be the occasion for correcting any errors that your children might have picked up, whether they go to Catholic or public school.

Each month parents and catechists discuss one chapter of the book and then the parents teach it to their children. There are activities in each chapter to help the children to learn the key points of each chapter. At the end of the month, there is another meeting. At this meeting, Catechists meet with the parents and their children to discuss what they have learned that month. There are also opportunities during the year for families to spend time with each other to support one another in this holy endeavor.

Let us pray for each other that the grace of the Holy Spirit will guide all our efforts to learn and live the Faith we profess.

Watch for more on this next week and what we will be doing to turn this around.
