Fifteenth Sunday in Ordinary Time

JULY 10, 2022

Deuteronomy 30:10-14;

Colossians 1:15-20;

Luke 10:25-37

Our faith is eminently simple. Love God, and love neighbor. We do not need to be geniuses or doctors of theology to do this. We don't need to go to a faraway country to find some esoteric guru to explain to us the mysteries of life. We simply need to love God with all our heart, soul, strength, and mind, and to love our neighbor as ourselves. In the first reading, Moses tells us that if we really did this, all the nations of the world would see how truly wise we are.

In the Gospel, Jesus combines two commandments of the Torah as the summary of all morality and virtue: Deuteronomy 6:5 tells us to love God with heart, soul, strength, and mind. Leviticus 19:18 tells us to love our neighbor as ourselves.

Sometimes, however, we like to put limits on love, so Jesus told the parable of the Good Samaritan. Jews and Samaritans hated each other; yet here a Samaritan looks after a bloodied Jew when his fellow Jews looked away. That kind of love is to be the measure of our own: Providing for those in need, even if they are enemies.

Having said that faith is eminently simple, our second reading is one of the most profound passages in the entire Bible! The background is the belief of the Jews that the Torah was the eternal, unchanging, self-manifestation of God.

From all eternity, God spoke his word in the Torah. The Torah was the model of all creation, and well as the cause and purpose of all creation. All things were made for the Torah and unto the Torah. The Torah was delivered to Moses in time, on Mt. Sinai, but it was eternal.

Paul had been a Pharisee. When he became Christian, he simply applied to Jesus Christ everything that he had previously believed about the Torah: Jesus Christ is the image of the invisible God. He (not the Torah) is the first born of creation. All things were created in him and for him (and not in and for the Torah.)

Everything that makes God to be God resides bodily in Jesus Christ. He is the "fullness" of the Father. Faith is simple enough for the humblest of persons; yet it is profound enough to boggle the mind of the greatest scholar!

Fifteenth Sunday in Ordinary Time, July 10, 2022

Dear Parishioners,

This weekend the Church celebrates the 15th Sunday in Ordinary Time. If we were given a question to ask Jesus, what question would you want Him to answer for you? More than likely, it would involve a question concerning eternal life. It might mean, “Jesus, why did my husband, father, or mother die? Or perhaps, “Jesus why did I develop cancer that causes so much suffering?” There are so many questions that each of us would like to ask. In our gospel today, a scholar of the law asked Jesus, “Teacher, what must I do to inherit eternal life?” It’s a question that each of us would also like to ask Jesus so that we have some certainty toward the answer. But Jesus then puts it back on the scholar by asking him what is written in the law? The young man quotes the Scriptures concerning loving God and loving our neighbor. But this young man, inquisitive and wishing to justify himself asks the question, “Who is my neighbor.” Then we find Jesus spelling out who our neighbor is by relating the story of the Good Samaritan. The summary of the parable is that we are to treat each other with mercy. And Jesus says to him and to us, “Go and do likewise.”

What is it about this parable of the Good Samaritan that strikes you? First, the conclusion was sort of a shocker for the people listening. Of all the people that are a part of the story, the priest, Levite, and the Samaritan, no one would have expected the Samaritan to act with mercy. Why? Because the Samaritans and Jews had a bitter hatred of each other. Yet, that is the one person who stopped to provide aid and assistance. The people from whom we would have expected such behavior, the priest and Levite, went on ahead, ignoring the situation. Yes, they might have had various reasons for not stopping, but to completely ignore a person in need did not reflect love of God and love of neighbor. But the behavior of the Samaritan modeled the behavior that Jesus expected and exemplified the mercy that would assist one to eternal life. Let’s all pray that we truly are more like the Samaritan as we extend mercy and compassion towards others who are in need.

Speaking of showing mercy and compassion towards others in our community, we have a special collection this weekend for Catholic Charities of Quincy. This organization extends for all of us in our local community what the Samaritan did for the one who was robbed and beaten. Catholic Charities continually shows compassion and mercy towards the poor and vulnerable in our community who truly need the touch of Christ in their lives. With our generous contributions, this organization is able to extend the mercy of each of us towards these people who are in need of our help and assistance. Please be generous. Special envelopes for this collection can be found in your packet of parish envelopes (dated July 10) or there will be special envelopes in the pews for you to use also.

This Monday, July 11, I hope to be heading north for my annual adventure to Frankenmuth, Michigan. I enjoy this particular area as it provides an atmosphere to slow down and relax for a few days. Planning on meeting my brother and his wife up there to enjoy a few days away. Will be returning on Friday, July 15. Please pray for me as I will pray for you.

Fr. Leo's column continued..

In cooperation with the Missionary Co-Op of our diocese, we will be welcoming Fr. Francis Valentine Odoom, a priest of the Archdiocese of Cape Coast, Ghana. He was ordained a priest on November 12, 2005, and will be asking for our financial support of the work in his diocese. Since we believe in the four marks of the Church, and in this case the catholicity (universality) of the Church, it is important that we express that in our support of Churches that need our help. Please listen and then contribute to the work of the Catholic Church in Ghana.

ON THE LIGHTER SIDE: The Sunday school teacher was telling the class about the Christian's armor. She said, "And St. Paul says we should carry the Word of God as a weapon. Do you remember what he called the Word of God?"

There was no answer, so she prompted, "It's very sharp, something that cuts."

Then one little fellow answered vigorously, "I know, I know! It's the axe of the Apostles."

A Sunday school class was being quizzed on the story of the prodigal son.

The teacher asked one youngster, "Who was sorry when the prodigal son returned home?"

The boy gave it a lot of deep thought, then said, "The fatted calf."

Enjoy the remaining weeks of summer. It will go fast.
