January 22, 2023 Third Sunday in Ordinary Time

A Message from Fr. Tom Donovan:

In 2019, Pope Francis declared this Third Sunday of Ordinary Time as a “Sunday of the Word of God”, when the Church is invited to take time to ‘appreciate the inexhaustible riches contained in that constant dialogue between the Lord and his people’ (Aperuit Illis 2, Misericordia et Misera 7). In the context of this observance, we read the Gospel where Jesus began his ministry of preaching and called his disciples to follow him and become “fishers of men” (Matthew 4:19). On hearing the Word of God, these disciples dropped what they were doing and immediately followed the Lord, so compelling was his invitation. The Lord continues to call followers today with an invitation which is no less urgent and no less beautiful. Are we ready to respond to his invitation?

The year 2023 is an “A” year in the three-year cycle of readings, and this year we hear the gospels from St. Matthew. Matthew was a Jew, writing to a Jewish audience, and so his intent was to help draw his reader’s attention to the continuity Jesus has with the prophets of old and how Jesus goes further by fulfilling the prophecy of the long-expected Messiah in himself. Matthew does these things by inviting his audiences to hear a number of the great speeches or ‘discourses’ of Jesus who assumes his place as teacher (‘rabbi’) before the community of the faithful—the most prominent of them being the “Sermon on the Mount” (Matthew, chapters 5-7). These teachings tell us of the demands of the life of grace, of taking up one’s cross, of being compassionate to those in need, and of observing the law in spirit and truth. To this final point, Jesus constantly challenges those who believe themselves to be justified by their religious practice to look at themselves and to eliminate hypocrisy in how they live, for there is no room for self-regard or a divided heart in the struggle to become truly holy. We might identify these teachings as the “call to continuing conversion”, which is central to the Christian spiritual journey. From all these core teachings, Jesus reveals the arrival of the kingdom, made immediately manifest in his passion and resurrection.

St. Jerome (+420) is famous for his maxim, “ignorance of scripture is the ignorance of Christ.” We really and truly receive his Body and Blood in the Eucharistic Sacrifice at each celebration of Mass, but these signs speak of the totality of the mystery of Christ—not unlike the totality of how we encounter people in our everyday world. We meet with them, share a meal, discuss the ideas and events of our lives, work together on projects, share our sorrows, joys, and hopes, and eventually we take our leave. We encounter them and interact with them in the totality of their action and in their presence. But as we simply relate to each other, can we know their innermost hearts and minds? Not always. Each person is also an inexhaustible storehouse of history, family and relationships, mentoring and formation, human interest, insight and thought, as well as opportunity and action. We sometimes receive a glimpse of that history in an autobiography or obituary, which attempt in their own ways to tell a person’s story by breaking down the details—doing an “analysis” of the person. In reading these items we can come to know these persons better, beyond the mere appearances as we look at their hearts and their minds in the midst of their action and being. This is what our Gospel writers are working to communicate, through the inspiration of the Holy Spirit. When we encounter Christ in his Word and then receive him in the Blessed Sacrament, our encounter is complete, as it was on that day the disciples came to know him in the proclamation of the word and the Breaking of the Bread on the Road to Emmaus (Luke 24: 13ff). Sacred Scripture lets us step into a new world where, like Mary, we can reflect on ‘these things’ in our hearts, which is the essence of doing “theology” (“faith seeking understanding”). The Word thus leads us to a more fruitful celebration of the Eucharist, and again in turn, the Eucharist leads us to a deeper encounter with his Word. These complimentary modes of revelation reveal the ‘whole’ Christ and, to soothe the worries of St. Jerome, banishes ignorance in those who would call themselves “Christians”.

POPE FRANCIS
THE SUNDAY OF
THE WORD OF GOD

A Message from Mrs. Carol Frericks—Principal

Kindergarten through 8th Grade Students Share Why God Created Us

During Morning Assembly, we review students' learning from the Catechism of the Catholic Church that students experience on Wednesdays during our special class for Family Faith Formation. We are thankful for all of the people who provide "the ministry of Catechesis that helps young people enrich and expand their understanding of the Scriptures and the sacred tradition and their application to life today, and live more faithfully as disciples of Jesus Christ in their daily lives, especially through a life of prayer, justice, and loving service." according to the USCCB. Genuine faith is a total response of the whole person—mind, heart, and will. This week we reviewed the questions, "Who made you?" and "Why did God create you?" The ministry of catechesis fosters students' growth in our faith in these dimensions-trusting (heart), knowing and believing (mind), and doing (will).

The Bible and the Church Fathers

February 8, 2023 6:30 p.m.

The scripture study class this winter will be on “The Bible and the Church Fathers”. While many Christians know scripture, many are unclear as to how the Scripture was received in the early Church, bringing enlightenment to Sacred Tradition and the Sacraments we reverence today. Lessons include an introduction to the “Patristic Era” of the Church, the biblical of what it means to be a “church”, and the role of the Sacraments, old and new covenants, and “mystagogy” in the life of the Church. Along the way we will meet the apostles, Clement, Polycarp, Justin Martyr, John Chrysostom, Augustine, and other heroes of the age. This 12-part video course is scheduled to begin on Wednesday, February 8 in the parish hall.
