Isaiah 45:1,4-6; 1 Thessalonians 1:1-5b;
Matthew 22:15-21

The Pharisees and Herodians were mortal enemies. The Pharisees thought that Roman rule over the Jewish people was blasphemy; the Herodians supported Roman rule. Both groups unite to pose a dilemma to Jesus: Should a person pay taxes to Rome?

If Jesus answers "yes," he alienates all observing Jews. If he answers "no," he would be arrested by the Romans. He gets off the horns of the dilemma by using a coin, and telling people to give to Caesar what belongs to Caesar, but to God what belongs to God.

But he doesn't solve the problem. What belongs to the secular sphere? What belongs to God? Can religion impose on the natural order those principles which can only be known if one accepts faith?

Some things are obviously secular: for example, protection of rights and of the public order, roads and transportation. Some things are obviously religious. But many things are mixed, such as education, public morality, and the means of communication. The problem will probably never be solved, but reasonable people must always strive to cooperate while avoiding extreme positions.

The first reading is praise of a pagan secular ruler. Cyrus of Persia is even called "the Lord's anointed." The word used is "messiah!" The reading points out that Cyrus is great because of God, even though he doesn't know God!

The second reading is the beginning of the very first book of the New Testament to be written. Paul wrote to the Thessalonians around 51 A.D. to solve problems about the "Second Coming." Paul had preached that Jesus would return in glory very soon. When he didn't, some of the Thessalonians were discouraged. Paul urges them to faith, hope, and constancy in spite of difficulties.

Imago Dei—In The Image of God

What a tremendous joy it is to return to you this weekend for the Saturday anticipatory Mass here at St. Francis Solanus and to bring with me, my formator, Fr. Fadi Auro, and my brother seminarians from Kenrick-Glennon Seminary, in their first year, known as the propaedeutic stage. These men come from a diverse range of backgrounds, some fresh out of college, some after a career. Some are converts to the faith while others are cradle Catholics or “reverts” to the faith.

Each of these men share a common identity with you—they are sons of the Father. You are a son or daughter of the Father. You are fearfully and wonderfully made (Ps. 119:14) in the image and likeness of God, that is, Imago Dei (Genesis 1:27). God made you so he could love you. He loves all things that exist, hates nothing He has made, because if He hated it, He would not have made it (Wisdom 11:24).

These men are healing from a culture which thinks that man is not made good. If we were not made in goodness and love, then why would Jesus call us to be like little children (Matt. 18:3)? Indeed, we are born into original sin but this is not a sin which we have committed, rather it is a sin we inherit. At the baptismal font, we are freed from the sin of Adam and born again in water and spirit (John 3:5), a beautiful grafting onto the body of Christ, bringing us into His bride, the Church he established (Matt. 16:18).

Yet, we find ourselves desiring what is not actually good. We have poor eyesight so often to see the true good God desires for us. Our world today makes this more difficult. We live in a culture which both blatantly and subtly rejects the truth and the freedom Christ desires for us (Galatians 5). This is easier to say than to live for us. In our own families, we can desire to place what seems good above what is actually good. Parents can find themselves placing their kids before all else when we’re called to place God first (Matt 6:33). Jesus calls us to be childlike. He calls us to trust him with confidence. He calls us to be His. Do you desire to live in true freedom?

In this Sunday’s gospel, a trap is laid for Jesus. Is it right to pay taxes to Caesar? As Illinoisans I suspect we all have strong opinions on taxation but notice instead how Jesus responds. “Render unto Caesar what is Caesar’s and unto God what is God’s.” You’ve heard this before. I won’t bore you with talk of civic duty and obligations to support the Church.

Caesar, a pagan emperor of Rome, including Jerusalem, was actually pretty accommodating to the Jewish people. Remember Rome rebuilt the temple and despite being a pantheistic form of paganism, Rome allowed for the Jewish people to worship. This was very different from the occupation the Maccabees revolted against.

We owe what is owed in terms of the dignity of the lender. To the bank holding your mortgage, you owe repayment. To your spouse you owe fidelity. To your parents you owe respect. We owe different things to different people. Highest in dignity and surpassing any lender is God. We owe everything first and foremost to God. All creation exists because God loves. Even Caesar, a pagan, is loved by God—whether Caesar responded accordingly is debatable. Caesar had his face, his image, his likeness minted into the Roman coinage. Caesar, is made Imago Dei, made in the image and likeness of God. Caesar possesses dignity.

Are you responding accordingly to God’s dignity and His love for you? Or do you avoid Him like you avoid a bill in the mailbox?

God gives us everything including our own being. He doesn’t ask for gold or silver. He asks for our hearts. He calls us to be with Him. The sacraments certainly draw us into the relationship He desires with us.

Have you considered incorporating a regular holy hour into your day to spend with Jesus? Thanks be to God that here at St. Francis Solanus, the church is open throughout the day for you to come, sit, and rest in relationship with our Eucharistic Lord. Your parish even has the opportunity to be with Him more intimately in Eucharistic Adoration weekly. Would you give the Lord what is His—your very self? He wants you, woundedness and all.

P.S.—Thank you all for the many kind notes, they mean a lot! Your prayers for me, my brother seminarians, and for the young men and women here discerning God’s will for them are most appreciated!

Pennies (and More) For Life

Please make an active commitment to the pro-life cause.

Dig into your pockets, purses, and piggy banks to contribute to the Right to Life of Adams County "Pennies for Life" campaign. Each parishioner is encouraged to contribute at least 1 cent for each year of his life, in gratitude to God for the gift of life. A collection will be taken this weekend, with volunteers at each door at the end of each Mass to gratefully accept your donations. Thank you for helping the Right to Life of Adams County.

Advent Giving Tree

We will have the Advent Giving Tree once again this year. We ask that if you know of any school family, or family registered as a parishioner in St. Francis Parish who could use some help at Christmas, please come forward by Monday, October 30, and let the committee know. You may submit a name sealed in an envelope and bring it to the Parish Office. Or you may call Pat Holbrook, 217-257-2570 or Mary Ann Cornwell, 217-430-0528. Parishioners also are encouraged to come forward and ask our faith community for assistance with a self referral if needed. Please call Pat Holbrook or Mary Ann Cornwell with these requests as well. This program is parishioners helping our own parish family. This year we would like to include parishioners residing in nursing homes, so you will see some different requests on the tags this year. There will be many opportunities to donate this season for community outreach as well. Please do not feel that you have to give to each request but choose the ones that you prefer.

St Francis Stewardship Committee

We continue to seek new members to bring fresh ideas and help implement them in our parish. One of the more recent endeavors has been led by Mary Fitzsimmons regarding a new hospital ministry visiting parishioners who are inpatient at Blessing Hospital. Please join us at our next meeting Tuesday, October 24 at 6:15 in the Parish Center.

Congratulations and Welcome
