A Message from Fr. Tom Donovan:

Ezra the priest gathered the assembly of Israel and proclaimed the Law before them (cf. Neh 8:2ff). When he finished, the people arose and proclaimed “Amen, amen!” before bowing down before the LORD.

Catholics regard Sacred Scripture as the inspired Word of God. As such, Sacred Scripture is not only central to Church teaching, but also to the life we live liturgically, socially, and spiritually. Sacred Scripture is divinely inspired, in that the Holy Spirit guided human writers to convey God’s message faithfully under many genres: history, poetry, prophecy, narrative, and theological reflection. Taken in its entirety, Sacred Scripture is without error in regard to salvation and trustworthy in matters of faith and morals.

The Church holds the responsibility to interpret Sacred Scripture authentically, in harmony with Sacred Tradition which is the complement to Scripture. Indeed, the collection of Sacred Scripture into what we know as the Bible is itself a product of that Sacred Tradition, flowing from the apostles to the bishops and patriarchs who met to determine the composition of the Bible from all of the early writings of the Church. The Letters to (Pope) Clement, the Gospel of James, and the Didache all have value as Early Christian writings, but they do not rise to the level of being held as Sacred Scripture. The collection of writings we understand as the Old Testament, along with the “Second Canon” (Deuterocanonical books), and the Gospels, Letters, and Apocalypse from what we understand as the New Testament were established as the “canonical” Biblical texts between the second and fourth century.

When we read Sacred Scripture, whether privately or in the context of a liturgical celebration, we encounter the Living God. In 2019, Pope Francis declared this Third Sunday of Ordinary Time as a “Sunday of the Word of God”, when the Church is invited to take time to ‘appreciate the inexhaustible riches contained in that constant dialogue between the Lord and his people’ (Aperuit Illis 2, Misericordia et Misera 7). In the context of this observance, we read the Gospel of Luke where Luke explains his motivation for writing of Jesus, “so that you may realize the certainty of the teachings you have received.” (Lk 1:4) We then begin our reading of the Gospel of Luke, our Gospel for 2025, by hearing Jesus proclaim his mission: “... to proclaim liberty to captives and recovery of sight to the blind, to let the oppressed go free, and to proclaim a year acceptable to the Lord.” (Lk 4: 18-19)

Sacred Scripture is integral to the celebration of Mass and for other public celebrations in the life of the Church. Sacred Scripture is the foundation of most of our liturgical music and is generously layered into the imagery and poetry of the prayers belonging to sacramental celebrations. The psalms are sung constantly by members of the Church throughout the world as they pray Morning and Evening Prayer, along with the other ‘hours’ of the day. To be ignorant of Scripture, as St. Jerome argues, is to be ignorant of Christ.

On this “Sunday of the Word of God”, we are called to devote ourselves once again to study and prayer with Sacred Scripture as a way to grow in familiarity with God, who is the Eternal Word who took on flesh that we might share in his glory.

A Message from Mrs. Carol Frericks—Principal

Catholic Schools Celebrate Being United in Faith and Community

Catholic Schools across our nation celebrate being united in faith and community during the week of January 26 through February 1, 2025. In Quincy Catholic Schools, we will begin the week by praying the Rosary together through a virtual meeting. At St. Dominic School, we will gather in the gym for our Morning Assembly and project the virtual meeting for our school family to pray together with all of the Quincy Catholic Schools. St. Dominic School will lead the Fifth Joyful Mystery — Finding the Child Jesus in the Temple. While our school leaders pray the fifth decade of the Rosary, we will show this beautiful art painted by Fra Angelico, which is hanging in our school hallway. During Catholic Schools Week, parents have the opportunity to participate in a Rosary Art Walk to enjoy this beautiful art displayed at our school.
