O Mother of Good Counsel & Mother of the Church, we lift our hearts to you for your son, Pope Leo XIV, chosen to carry the keys of Peter.

Bless him with wisdom greater than his years, with courage deeper than his fears, and with love that mirrors your ownboundless, tender, and true. May he lead not with power, but with grace; not with pride, but with humility; not with fear, but with faith. Show yourself a Mother to him, always standing with him under the Cross, ever saying: "Do whatever He tells you"

Parish Mission - October 6-10 in English Misión Parroquial en Español - Octubre 13-17

he return of His human nature in glory to heaven was a necessary preliminary to the mission of the Spirit. His going would not be a loss but a gain. As the fall of the first man was the fall of his descendants, so the Ascension of the Son of Man would be the ascension of all who were grafted unto Him. His atoning death was the condition of receiving the Spirit of God. If He did not go away, that is to say, unless He died, nothing would be done; the Jews would remain as they were, the heathens would remain in their blindness, and all would be under sin and death.

The corporal presence had to be removed in order that the spiritual presence might take its place. His continued presence on earth would have meant a localized presence; the descending of the Spirit would mean that He could be in the midst of all men who would be incorporated unto Him.

The indwelling of the Spirit would mean more than His physical presence among them. So long as Our Lord was with them on earth, His influence was from without inward: but when He would send the Spirit, His influence would radiate from without; those who possessed it would have the Spirit of Christ Jesus on earth.

There would be a twofold glorification of Himself: the one by the Father; the other by the Spirit; the one would take place in heaven, and the other on earth. By the one, He is glorified in God Himself, and by the other, He is glorified in all who believe in Him...He would be glorified when His human nature would be seated at the right hand of the Father. But this heavenly spiritual glory could not be truly apprehended unless He sent the Spirit Who reveals the glory of Christ in them by dwelling and working within. Though they knew Christ by the flesh, they are now reassured that they would know Him so no longer. Obedience was described as the necessary condition of receiving the Spirit. - from Ven. Fulton Sheen's "Life of Christ"
