A Message from Fr. Tom Donovan:

In the time of Jesus, meals were very important, not only for the purposes of finding nourishment, but as we find this week in the Gospel, as a way to affirm and broadcast one's status within the community. We see vestiges of this behavior in formal meals which are more and more rare in our society. Sometimes we hear of the "state dinners" held at the White House or Buckingham Palace, where world leaders gather, arranged by rank (dinner hosts, followed by visiting heads of state, ambassadors, aides, etc.), and we are amazed or confused by the function of each of a half-dozen forks presented at each place-setting. Our contemporary wedding feasts and other formal social occasions have lost many of the cues and distinctions that separate and rank guests in the desire for simplicity and to limit social stratification... which is probably a good thing!

All things being equal, it would be an honor to be invited to dine with a pharisee. Jesus' invitation to such a meal would be a validation of his ministry in some ways. But the first line of the Gospel tells us that Jesus was being tested: "the people were observing him carefully." How might Jesus use this opportunity to teach?

Jesus takes this opportunity to explain some very relevant social theory which remains rooted in the all-too-human games of self-importance that we play. What is 'true honor'? One does not gain honor by jockeying for position at the table... by estimating their social 'place' and neither sitting too high or too low for that status. How embarrassing to be publicly rebuked for thinking themselves 'too high!' While there would be an affirmation of esteem by being called higher, there would also be a bit of embarrassment of remaining a bit too friendly with those who were 'beneath them'.

Jesus points to where true honor lies... it's not in social convention or in places of honor, but in doing justice. When you hold a lunch or dinner, do not invite your friends or brothers or your relatives or your wealthy neighbors in case they might invite you back and you have repayment." The fatal flaw in giving gifts, in giving honors, in being 'grand' in social occasions is to obligate oneself to 'the game' of being repaid. "Rather, invite the poor, the crippled, the lame, the blind; blessed indeed you will be... you will be repaid at the resurrection of the righteous." (Remember, Pharisees did believe in the resurrection, unlike the Sadducees and many others... so Jesus is intentionally calling out his host and putting him on the spot!) Might this be the paragon of rudeness, that Jesus, who is only a guest, is telling his host who should be invited to the meal? Perhaps it was, but does it not punctuate Jesus' teaching that having a place in the kingdom of heaven is not a matter of favor and privilege among the powerful and the honored, but rather the kingdom belongs to the meek and humble?

Ministry Spotlight: Liturgy of the Word for Children - We celebrate the Liturgy of the Word for Children at our Sunday 8 a.m. and 10:30 a.m. Masses. As the readings of the Mass are about to be proclaimed, children are sent forth to the Our Sorrowful Mother's Chapel in the church where they hear the readings from the Children's Lectionary in their own words and then engage in activities and discussion to 'break open the Word' among themselves. This is not 'Sunday School' or 'child care', but a way for our young people to encounter the Word of God according to their own abilities in the context of the Sunday liturgy. Children are welcomed from an age where they can sit and pay attention until generally about their First Communion/Confirmation age, when they should be able to join the larger community and discuss the readings with their families. For more information or to volunteer to assist with this ministry, contact the parish office (217) 222-5996.

A Message from Mrs. Carol Frericks—Principal

Integrating Art To Enhance Learning About Salvation History

During the 2025-2026 school year, we will utilize our art grant funds to provide art lessons for kindergarten through eighth-grade students with Mrs. Becky Hoskins on Mondays. Students will explore the timeline of salvation history through works of art, art history, and creating their own works of art. By integrating art, it will enhance students' learning about salvation history by making complex stories more vivid, beautiful, and memorable. Works of art serve as both a primary historical source of information and a teaching tool, which helps to build critical thinking skills and create a deeper connection to the narrative story of salvation history in the Bible. Visual art, like paintings and illustrations in storybooks, make engaging in historical stories easier for learners of all ages. Instead of just reading a story, learners can interact with a visual representation of events to make sense of them.
