Q: What is purgatory? Where does that teaching come from?

A: According to the Catechism of the Catholic Church, Purgatory is the name given to the final purification of the elect and is not equated with the punishment of the damned (no. 1031). It is a state of being and not a particular place. This doctrine of faith was formulated at the Councils of Florence (1431-45) and Trent (1545-63) and is scripturally based (cf. 1 Cor 3:15; 1 Pt 1:7). The Church holds that "all who die in God's grace and friendship, but still imperfectly purified, are indeed assured of their eternal salvation, but after death they undergo purification, so as to achieve the holiness necessary to enter the joy of heaven" (CCC, no. 1030); for no sin can stand before God and live (cf. Ex 33:20; Hab 1:13a; Ps 5:4-5)

Under the punishments of sin, the Catechism writes: 'To understand this doctrine and practice of the Church, it is necessary to understand that sin has a double consequence. Grave sin deprives us of communion with God and therefore makes us incapable of eternal life, the privation of which is called the 'eternal punishment' of sin. On the other hand every sin, even venial, entails an unhealthy attachment to creatures, which must be purified either here on earth, or after death in the state called Purgatory. This purification frees one from what is called the 'temporal punishment' of sin. These two punishments must not be conceived of as a kind of vengeance inflicted by God from without, but as following from the very nature of sin. A conversion which proceeds from a fervent charity can attain the complete purification of the sinner in such a way that no punishment would remain" (no. 1472)

Purgatory is God's love of remaking man through suffering. Mans suffering is both the outcome of his condition and its cure. "The pain that was refused must be accepted; the truth that has escaped cognition must be learned; the imperfect love must be made full and perfect" (Romano Guardini). This state of being is God's final conferral of mercy.

Those experiencing Purgatory can be aided through our prayers (especially the Eucharist), almsgiving, indulgences, and works of penance undertaken on behalf of the dead. St. John Chrysostom writes: "Let us help commemorate them. If Job's sons were purified by their fathers sacrifice, why would we doubt that our offerings for the dead bring them some consolation? Let us not hesitate to help those who have died and to offer our prayers for them" (Hom. in 1 Cor 41, 5:PG 61, 361; cf. Job 1:5)
